Sharing Successes and Setting Goals during last week's Parent Conferences

Building a conversation around each child's strength was the intent behind every Parent Conference last week. Parents also learned about our new K-8 social emotional learning program, Second-Step, which works to provide their child with specific skills to help regulate emotions, build resiliency, and problem-solve. The program also works on the whole school -- creating a safe and positive learning environment for all to succeed.

Parents also received skill-based data reports related to how their child is progressing in English Language Arts and Mathematics.

Parents will receive our standards-based progress report after the conclusion of the first Trimester (Nov 15).

Children are also invited to wear clothing that reflects their heritage or just dress up for this special occasion.
